DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This group of three contemporary, nearly identical rowhouses is $2\frac{1}{2}$ stories each with basement. Each is two bays wide with gabled roof, built of brick in running bond. All are presently owned by the City with first floor openings filled with concrete and upper openings concreted or boarded.

High concrete stoops replace the original wood, with treads set perpendicular to the facade, ^{and} lead to the entrances on the left. On the right at basement level wood, or segmental arched brick lintelled coal chute openings are filled with concrete.

Wall openings have wooden sills and segmental arched brick or wooden lintels; there is no apparent consist^{ence} or pattern in the type of lintel used. 813 probably had all wooden lintels; 815 had segmental arched openings at entrance and second floor; all but attic floor openings are segmental arched at 817. All houses have square window openings at attic floor. A brick cornice runs at the roofline. Rectangular brick chimneys are set at the right party wall of each house. The group at 813-817, which is similar to the group at 819-823 Leadenhall Street sits higher on its basement, so that all floor levels and roofline are above that of the more southerly group. Thus the party wall of 817 is exposed on the right a few feet above the roof of 819 Leadenhall.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Constructed similarly to the group of houses immediately to the south at 819-823 Leadenhall Street, and typical of mid-century residential building in Sharp-Leadenhall, this group of structures would indicate that the structural details of windows-wooden lintels-vs. segmental arched brick windows-overlapped in periods of use.
